

TEAMS DEADLOCKED IN FIRST FRAME

LINDBERGH'S SAVED FROM DROWNING HALLAHAN OPPOSES

RESCUED FROM HARBOR AFTER PLANE SPILLS

Three Plunged Into Water As Lowering Rope Breaks

SHANGHAI, China, Oct. 2.—The heroic relief work by Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh in behalf of China's millions of flood sufferers nearly ended in tragedy today when their speedy pontoon-equipped plane capsized while being lowered into the water from the British aircraft carrier Hermes in Hankow harbor.

The Lindberghs were preparing to leave on their second survey trip over the badly flooded Wuhan area when the accident occurred. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh were accompanied by Dr. B. Boric, health expert appointed by the League of Nations to investigate flood conditions and coordinate relief measures.

The plane was being lowered by means of a block and tackle. While suspended midway between the deck of the aircraft carrier and the water, the tackle suddenly snapped, overturning the plane and spilling out the occupants.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh and their medical companion were rescued, and were not believed to have suffered any ill effects beside a dousing in the waters of Hankow Harbor.

The plane, however, was seriously damaged. It was understood that after a brief inspection Col. Lindbergh decided to return to the mainland to have the plane repaired, thus ending at least temporarily the flood relief work which earned America's premier aviator China's gold aviation medal and the undying affection of the Chinese people.

The Lindberghs arrived at Hankow on Wednesday from Nanking, after making several survey flights up the Yangtze River from the nationalist government's capital.

They spent Wednesday night aboard the Hermes as guests of the captain. Their plane had been hoisted aboard the ship without any untoward incident.

At 10 a. m. yesterday, the plane was lowered into the water with its three occupants, and for four hours Col. Lindbergh piloted the plane over the Wuhan area. Returning to the Hermes shortly after 2 p. m., Col. Lindbergh announced he would take off again this morning on his second survey. He had planned to make five separate flights while in the Hankow area before proceeding to Peking.

The accident at Hankow was the second narrow escape Col. Lindbergh had undergone since beginning of his relief work in China.

On Saturday, accompanied by a British and a Chinese doctor, Col. Lindbergh flew from Nanking to Hingwen, an isolated community in the northern part of Kiangsu province, which had been cut off completely from the rest of China by the disastrous floods.

Landing on the surface of the Yangtze just outside the city, Col. Lindbergh's plane was mobbed by hundreds of starving Chinese who thought that he had brought them food. In the frenzied rush the plane was almost overturned, but Col. Lindbergh opened the throttle and got off the water just in time.

CONVICT - WRITER RETURNED TO CELL

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 2.—Freedom on parole today had proved a snare for Lawrence H. Maynard, who wrote a novel and short stories while imprisoned for burglary.

He was under arrest charged with carrying burglary tools and associating with suspicious characters.

Since his release from New Jersey state prison, Maynard said he had worked on a newspaper until he decided to devote all his time to writing. He was awaiting a check for a story he sold, he said, when he picked up carrying a pinch bar.

"GRAM" DUNHAM HAS FINANCIAL WORRY

NORWAY, Me., Oct. 2.—To her burden of sorrow incident to the passing of her life-partner, "Gram" Dunham, widow of "Mellie" Dunham, famous fiddler, today found herself shouldered with the weight of financial worry.

"Gram's" sole property consists of a small farm and some badly shrunken railroad securities. She told the undertaker, and authorities at Maine Central Hospital, where Mellie died, that she cannot pay their bills unless friends who owe her money can come to her aid.

NEW MYSTERY IN PENGUIN CASE

Mystery surrounds the detention of Dr. Louis D. Ritchie, 51, and his son, William, 23, both of South Norwalk, Conn., in Daytona Beach, Fla., in connection with their friendship with William Smith, clam digger, believed the second victim of the "pirates" who killed Benjamin P. Collings, after boarding his yacht, in Long Island sound, Huntington, L. I., authorities said that they "didn't want" the pair and both have denied any knowledge of either crime. Smith was associated with them in clam digging. With Dr. Ritchie, left, and his son, is Chief of Police C. L. Duke, center.

WOMAN COURT CLERK BLAMES JURIST FOR EMBEZZLING FUNDS

Accused Official Says Judge Entertained Her With Money

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 2.—Further sensations were expected to develop here today in the embezzlement trial of Mrs. Margaret A. Clark Tidd, 35, former Portsmouth municipal court clerk, as state attorneys indicated they might call Judge William R. Sprague as a rebuttal witness.

Judge Sprague was accused by Mrs. Tidd from the witness stand yesterday of being responsible for the shortage in the court clerk's accounts. The embezzled money, she charged, was used by the jurist to carry on an alleged affair with her.

Mrs. Tidd's trial, in which the former court clerk is charged with having embezzled $2,715, was expected to come to a close today, it will probably reach the jury this afternoon.

The courtroom was thrown into a flurry of excitement as Mrs. Tidd gave her sensational testimony yesterday. She declared that Judge Sprague himself took money from the court funds, replacing it with his own U. S. U. S. and worthless checks.

On one instance, the jurist took his court clerk to New York for a week's visit, Mrs. Tidd testified. The money, about $500, used on the trip, she alleged, was money taken from the court funds.

Mrs. Tidd also recalled from the witness stand that she once visited the judge's camp, where, while they were both scantily clad, they were surprised by her husband and another person. At that time, Mrs. Tidd testified, Judge Sprague admitted in the presence of her husband and another witness that he and not she, had taken the money.

Mrs. Tidd's husband and the fourth member of the surprise party at the judge's camp corroborated her statements.

Harry H. Grice, a former clerk in Judge Sprague's court, testified that during his term as clerk, the jurist made a practice of placing checks or slips in the cash drawer and removing money. At one time, Grice declared, the judge put in a check for $350.

The check covering this amount, Grice said, was never cashed and he produced a statement signed by the judge listing the check as being in the cash drawer. The statement was allegedly procured by Grice when he resigned as clerk and turned the cash over to the court.

Cecil D. Tidd, husband of the accused former court clerk, testified that after he had surprised Judge Sprague and his wife at the jurist's camp, he intended to sue the judge and that Sprague admitted all of the charges and offered to settle for $1,500. Tidd testified that he accepted the settlement.

Judge Sprague has been on the municipal bench for a number of years and is a candidate for reelection. He is a former member of the state legislature.

FANS HEAR GAME

BASEBALL fans found it much cheaper to attend the opening World Series game in front of the Gazette Bldg., Thursday than to make the trip to St. Louis and pay the ticket price asked.

Through the medium of the radio and the Gazette public address system, the play-by-play account of the game dictated in a microphone at Sportsman's Park by Ted Husing, Columbia system announcer, was carried clearly to a listening crowd in front of the Gazette.

Most of these fans stayed from the start of the broadcast until the last out. The radio party will be continued for the duration of the series.

CANTON MAN SOUGHT FOR EMBEZZLEMENT IS FEARED SUICIDE

Leaves Note In Auto; Reported $2,750 Is Missing

CANTON, O., Oct. 2.—A warrant charging embezzlement of $2,750 from the Canton sinking fund today was issued for Oscar Pfouts, missing secretary of the sinking fund's board of trustees.

Pfouts was found to be missing late yesterday after his abandoned automobile was discovered near Winesburg. A note in the car said: "I am sorry for what I did." It was learned Pfouts has not been seen for four days.

While state examiners began a thorough examination of the books of the sinking fund, which were said to have been kept by Pfouts, city and Stark County authorities launched an intensive and determined search for the man, dead or alive. It was feared he had committed suicide.

City Solicitor Russell Mack ordered the probe of the accounts last night after the note was found. Mack indicated he would have a statement later today which probably will reveal the result of the investigation.

Pfouts had charge of more than $2,000,000 and wrote checks for salaries and other needed expenditures, it was said. He had been secretary of the sinking fund for ten years.

When he failed to make an appearance at his office in the past four days, it was believed he had been at home sick until his abandoned machine was discovered late yesterday.

Police officials of nearby communities were immediately notified to be on the lookout for the man, and authorities of Winesburg, where the car was found, began a thorough search of the vicinity for the man's body, working on the theory that he had committed suicide.

TWO NEGROES SEVERELY WOUNDED WHEN POKER GAME ENDS IN FIGHT

GRUBBS GIVES NEW THEORY OF SHOOTING CASE

Claims Harris Shot Black; Confesses Hold-Up Plan

A confession, reported to have been obtained from Hassel Grubbs, 25, under arrest at Princeton, Ind., has revealed a new version of the attempted hold-up near Dayton Tuesday night in which Newell H. Black, 27, Grand Rapids, Mich., was shot and wounded fatally.

Grubbs, apprehended at his home in Princeton Thursday after playing hide and seek with authorities for forty-eight hours, was credited with having told police of the Indiana city that Black was shot by Special Constable William Harris and not, as had been supposed, by Robert Bowser, another special constable of Jefferson Twp., Montgomery County.

Admitting, according to reports, that he and Black had attempted to hold up and rob two men in separate autos parked in a lane off the Infirmary Road near the Germantown Pike, Grubbs said they did not suspect the men were officers but had supposed them to be run runners. Constable Bowser was shot in the left leg in the exchange of shots but Harris was not wounded.

Grubbs, who agreed to waive extradition, was to be returned to Dayton Friday by Sheriff Fred Wolf and Deputy Sheriff Lou Jennings, Montgomery County. He was arrested by Captain Jesse Fox of the Princeton police department at the home of his mother, Mrs. J. Sumner 903 N. Hart St., in that city, where he had gone after depositing his mortally wounded accomplice, Black, at the home of a relative in Xenia shortly before midnight Tuesday.

In his version of the shooting, as told to Princeton police shortly after his arrest, Grubbs said he and Black had followed an auto some distance along the highway. When the auto stopped behind another parked car in a lane off the Infirmary Road, Grubbs and Black also halted their machine.

The man in the first auto, identified as Bowser, alighted from the auto with a gun in his hand, Grubbs said, whereupon Black, he declared, also drew a gun and walked toward the constable. Black fired one shot, and Bowser dropped to the ground, according to the confession.

The man seated in the second car, who presumably was Harris, (Continued on Page Eight)

VICTIMS BADLY CUT; THREE ARRESTED AS SEQUEL TO DUEL

A fight that reputedly started over a poker game in progress at the home of Harold "Moke" Aikens, 26, colored, 927 E. Church St., late Thursday afternoon, ended in a hospital for two colored men and in arrest for three other Negroes.

Two of the poker players, confined in the County Infirmary Hospital under police guard, are reported in serious conditions from razor or knife wounds, but are expected to recover.

Mart Walker, 28, colored, E. Third St., sustained a six and one-half inch gash in his throat, extending from the left ear, the cut just missing the jugular vein, and stab wounds on the left thigh, top of the head, and the right arm. His right index finger was slashed. Many stitches were required to close the wounds.

George Riley, 67, colored, alias Rhinehart, who said his home was at 139 East Shields St., Newark, but that he had been rooming at 355 N. Galloway St., Columbus, was rushed in the police car to McClellan Hospital, where he submitted to a blood transfusion before being removed to the infirmary hospital. He suffered a deep gash in the throat, several arteries being severed, a broken left arm and a wound on the right shoulder.

Walker was first taken to police headquarters, where his injuries were dressed by Dr. Marshall Best.

Three colored men under arrest followed trails of blood to the cutting scrape started; Luther Carl, 39, of 726 E. Main St., and Eugene Haines, 39, of 818 E. Market St., Aikens may be charged with permitting gambling at his residence, while Carl and Haines, who were not believed to have been involved in the fight, are being held for further investigation.

Police, who hurried to the scene upon learning a fight was in progress, followed trails of blood to the cutting scrape started; Luther Carl, 39, of 726 E. Main St., and Eugene Haines, 39, of 818 E. Market St., Aikens may be charged with permitting gambling at his residence, while Carl and Haines, who were not believed to have been involved in the fight, are being held for further investigation.

Early Friday morning Police Chief O. H. Cornwell was notified by Columbus police that a colored man who gave his name as Paul Painting, Columbus, was in a hospital in that city, not expected to recover from a stab wound across the abdomen. Their investigation, Chief Cornwell was told, indicated the perhaps fatally wounded Negro had been involved in a cutting fray in Xenia.

STANDARD TO MERGE WITH SOLAR OUTFIT

LIMA, O., Oct. 2.—Only the sanction of stockholders of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio was needed today to complete a transaction merging the Standard Oil Co. with the Solar Refining Co. of Lima.

Stockholders of the Solar Company approved the merger at a meeting here yesterday, and Standard stockholders were scheduled to meet in Cleveland today, where it was expected they would attach their formal approval.

Solar officials announced the merger plan was ratified at yesterday's meeting on the basis of 3.6 shares of Solar stock for one share of Standard stock. Eighty-seven per cent of the Solar stock was represented at the meeting.

TWELVE JAILED AFTER JOBLESS RIOTS IN GLASGOW, SCOTLAND

GLASGOW, SCOTLAND, Oct. 2.—A laborite member of parliament and eleven other persons were in jail here today following a wild unemployment riot as a protest against the reduction of the dole.

Police estimated more than 50,000 persons were involved in the disorders. More than a score were injured, including three constables.

The laborite M. P., John McGovern of Shettleston, was arrested on Glasgow Green after several charges by mounted police into the crowd. He was accused of leading the demonstration and was held without bail pending an appearance in court.

SIR THOMAS LIPTON DIES

(BULLETIN)
LONDON, Oct. 2.—Sir Thomas Lipton, multi-millionaire tea magnate and yachtsman, died at his home here today at the age of 81.

Sir Thomas was stricken with a chill ten days ago. He was reported somewhat improved this morning but a sudden relapse this afternoon carried him away. He died peacefully while sleeping. Heart failure was the immediate cause.

MRS. COLLINGS GOES TO VIEW SUSPECTS; BOTH OFFER ALIBIS

Hope For Identification, Veterinarian Admits, Clam Digging

EN ROUTE TO DAYTONA BEACH, FLORIDA, Oct. 2.—Mrs. Lillian P. Collings, pale and nerve wracked, but grimly determined to do all in her power to avenge the brutal murder of her husband, today was speeding toward Daytona Beach, Florida hoping that she will be able to identify the two suspects held there, as the men who boarded the yacht Penguin on the night of Sept. 9 with murder in their hearts.

Yesterday afternoon Mrs. Collings looked intently at pictures of "Dr." Leslie D'Myers Ritchie and his son William who were arrested by Chief of Police J. Luke early yesterday morning and after studying them both said quietly "they may be the men."

The International News Service, through whose efforts photographs of the two men brought to New York immediately arranged for accommodations for Mrs. Collings, her sister-in-law, Miss Helen Collings; Judge William A. Kelly, her attorney, and Assistant District Attorney Frederick Munger of Suffolk County on the Havana special.

Mrs. Collings was hopeful but not entirely satisfied that her partial identification will blossom forth into absolute certainty when she views the two suspects. So many other apparently worthwhile clues have vanished under the cold light of logic and facts that she was afraid to place too much credence on even her own identification.

"They are the same type of men," she said in her Stamford home when shown the International News Service picture of the Florida suspects. "But the older man didn't have so much hair as that man has. The younger one though looks very much like him. But... it was so dark that night. If I could only hear their voices."

It was pointed out to the widow that a man could grow almost a full crop of hair in three weeks and when Judge Kelly placed his

RUSSIAN TROOPS GUARDING BORDER

PEIPING, Oct. 2.—A large force of Russian troops, estimated to number at least 20,000, remained concentrated today just across the Russian border opposite Manchuria, according to information received today from the Chinese commander at Manchouli.

Reports to Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang indicated that the situation was quiet along the border.

LONDON, Oct. 2.—Dispatches to the Daily Herald today from Kobe said that 100,000 Chinese troops, disorganized since the Japanese occupation, were spreading a reign of terror throughout Manchuria.

FIRST INNING

Philadelphia—Bishop out, Frisch to Bottomley. Haas struck out. Cochrane fanned. No runs, no hits, no errors.

St. Louis—Flowers grounded out, Bishop to Fox. Watkins hit safely over second and by fast running stretched it into a double as Haas felled the ball slowly. On the first pitched ball, Frisch drove a line fly to Haas. Haas also took Bottomley's fly. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Through a perverse whim of Dame Fortune, Manager Gabby Street is being forced to play a substitute at that spot in place of the highly capable "Sparky" Adams, and already the second guessers are tracing the loss of the first game of the series to the failure of the substitute, Little Andy High, to hang on to a hard hit bounding grounder in the "fatal third inning."

It was in that inning, immediately after this "break," that the Philadelphia A's rushed four runs across the plate to put the game on ice, although the final score was 6 to 2. That big "4" on the scoreboard seemed to break the Cardinals' fighting spirit.

Today Manager Street was prepared to "start all over," as he expressed it. He planned to send "Wild Bill" Hallahan, his star southpaw, to the mound in the hope of turning the tide. Hallahan shut the A's out in the third game of the 1931 world series. In all probability, Manager Connie Mack of the A's will pitch "Big George" Earnshaw, his crack right hander, who beat the Cardinals twice in last fall's classic.

St. Louis fans are shaking their heads and saying the accident which has put Adams on the bench never should have happened. The sad part is that it occurred in a regular game. Adams took part in a circling-the-bases contest against Brooklyn in St. Louis a week ago Sunday and pulled up with a sprained ankle. The critics of the Cardinals are contending Adams should not have been allowed to participate in the event, with a world series in the offing.

At any rate, High started in the series at third in place of Adams. It was Andy's tough luck to be cast in the role of "goat," at least in the eyes of some fans. Others claim Adams himself never could have snatched the ball that High missed. There is no question but that it was a difficult chance. The official scorer did not give Andy an error.

The betting odds today had lengthened to 2 to 1 on the A's to win the series. They now have a decided edge and if the Cardinals fall to win with Hallahan this afternoon the handwriting will be on the wall.

Hallahan is quietly confident that he will win and even the series. He is known as a good "money pitcher." Earnshaw, who probably will oppose him, has won twenty-one games and lost seven this year.

When "Sparky" Adams will be

FARMER - LABORITE REFUSES TO ATTEND CAUCUS OF PARTIES

Young Kvale Holds Balance Of Power In Organization

WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Control of the next house of representatives—a prize for which both Republicans and Democrats are striving desperately—was rendered still more uncertain today when Rep. Paul John Kvale, the lone farmer-labor member, announced he would not attend the caucus of either party, and would vote for organization purposes with that party which promised most in the way of progressive principles.

The present line-up of the house is 214 Republicans, 214 Democrats, with six vacancies.

If the Republicans fill three of these vacancies and the Democrats three—as expected—the party line-up will remain tied at 217 each, with Kvale constituting the theoretical balance of power.

Already they are calling the young, good-looking Minnesotan, "Mr. Balance of Power," and they are courting him assiduously. Shrewd, intelligent, and experienced in politics, despite his youthful years—he is 35—Kvale realizes the peculiar position in which fate has placed him. And naturally he is going to realize on it.

"Frankly," he told International News Service today, "I cannot say at this time with which party I will vote for organization purposes. 'I want to see some definite pledges in advance concerning revision of the rules, and other items of legislative procedure.'"

"I can say definitely, however, that I do not plan to attend the caucus of either party."

The attitude of the young Minnesotan was that of "a plague on both your parties," and "let 'em come to me."

Concerning prohibition, Rep. Kvale is rather open-minded. "I have never opposed and never shall oppose," he said, "a referendum on prohibition for which there is a clear popular demand."

"But I am not in favor of legalizing beer on the basis of present proposals. I have not yet been convinced by any argument or statistics that the return of beer would have any vital significance from an economic standpoint."

MISSIONARY GROUP HOLDS CONVENTION

CLEVELAND, Oct. 2.—Departmental conferences marked the annual convention of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Churches of Ohio, Kentucky, West Virginia, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi here today as business sessions opened with 400 delegates present.

The convention will continue through Sunday with devotional services bringing the gathering to a close. Reports of branch activities of the organization were to follow the conferences today.

"There must be a penetration of Christian principles into municipal government," if the tremendous waste and dipping into public treasuries is to be stopped," Mrs. Thomas Nicholson, Detroit, national president of the society, declared in an address before the opening session of the convention last night.

FACTS ON GAME

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 2.—Facts on today's second game of the world series:

Probable batteries—Hallahan (left-handed) and Wilbur for St. Louis; Earnshaw (right-handed), and Cochrane for Philadelphia.

Probable attendance—39,500. Probable estimated receipts—$170,000.

Today's betting odds—2 to 1 on Athletics.

Fans to the number of 38,529 paid $165,161.00 for the privilege of witnessing the first game of the 1931 world series between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals.

Of the gross receipts of yesterday's series-opener the two clubs will derive $56,154.74; the players will get $84,232.11; and the baseball commission's share is $24,774.15.

Football Games Will Be Broadcast On Saturday

By MILDRED MASON

TWO football games are scheduled to be broadcast over the NBC network Saturday. The Indiana-Notre Dame football game at Bloomington will be broadcast over an NBC-WJZ network starting at 3:15 p. m. Bill Munday will be at the microphone. The Nebraska-Northwestern game at Evanston on the same day will be heard over an NBC-WEAF network. This broadcast will start at 2:45 p. m. and Edwin Dooley, sports writer for the New York Sun, will be the announcer. It has not been announced if either of the games will be obtainable through Cincinnati stations.

Governor to Speak

Governor George White will speak briefly at the interest of good roads on the inaugural program sponsored by the Metropolitan Paving Brick Co. Saturday. The program will be heard through station WTAM, Cleveland at 8 p. m. A special musical program will be presented during the half hour's broadcast.

Indian On Air

Col Fred T. Cummins, noted Indian fighter, scout and friend of "Buffalo Bill" as well as a minion of the law in a hunt for the notorious Jesse James, will be guest speaker during the First Nighter program over an NBC-WJZ network Saturday. He will be heard through WLW, Cincinnati, from 9:30 to 10 p. m. The Indian will describe several thrilling adventures that occurred in "wild west" days.

Present Vespers Series.

The Rev. Fr. Charles E. Coughlin, pastor of the Shrine of the Little Flower, at Detroit, Mich., will be heard over WLW, Cincinnati, in a program sponsored by that institution every Sunday afternoon from 4 until 5 o'clock, beginning this week.

Popcorn Revue On Air

The Jolly Time Revue, new musical program featuring soloists and a dance orchestra, will make its debut over a coast-to-coast NBC network Sunday. The program will be heard through WLW, Cincinnati, from 7:15 to 7:30 o'clock. Fred Waldner, tenor, will be one of the soloists and the orchestra will be directed by Jules Herbuaux.

Contrast Types of Music.

The ridiculous and sublime in music as rendered by the Maurice Duke Harmonica Syncopators, a mouth-organ sextet, will be heard during the Collier's Hour over an NBC-WJZ network Sunday at 8:15 p. m. This novelty group specializes in arrangements that show the greatest contrasts in music. They also imitate various musical instruments and produce unusual orchestral effects. The program is available through WLW, Cincinnati.

Engagement Revealed At Opera Singer Delights Her Audience

ANNOUNCEMENT of the date of the approaching marriage of Miss Frances Grotteck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Grotteck, E. Main St., to Mr. John Donovan, W. Second St., was made at a charmingly appointed party entertained by Miss Ruth Galliger at the Iron Lantern Thursday evening.

HONORED ON FORTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY.

A delightful dinner party was enjoyed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. Dales Kyle, W. Church St., Thursday evening, honoring their fortieth wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williamson, N. Detroit St., who celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary recently, were also honored at the party.

The guests enjoyed dinner at tables attractively decorated with bouquets of fall flowers and the place cards were in the form of hearts. Following the dinner a short program was presented with Mrs. Frank P. Hastings as toastmistress. She gave a toast to the two couples and Mrs. J. H. Nagley read a poem, "That Old Sweetheart of Mine." She was dressed in a wedding costume of the same period in which Mr. and Mrs. Kyle were married. Miss Helen Jones sang, "Love's Old Sweet Song" and Mrs. Hastings read a parody on "Hiawatha." Mr. Kyle read a poem, "Reveries," which he had written.

SPRING HILL P.T.A. TO SHOW PICTURE HERE.

The motion picture, "The Covered Wagon," will be shown at Spring Hill School, under auspices of the P.T.A., Thursday evening at 7:30 o'clock. It was announced at a meeting of the organization at the school Monday afternoon. Tickets for the show will go on sale at the school Monday.

Miss Katherine Shorey, Greene County librarian, was guest speaker at the meeting and explained the system of a branch library to be installed at the school. Definite plans for the system have not been entirely completed. Several songs were sung by the first grade pupils, under the direction of Miss Harriett Kelier.

CELEBRATES 83RD BIRTHDAY HERE.

Mrs. Edith Harris, Kokomo, Ind., was guest of honor at a dinner party here Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Hortense Hurley, Chestnut St., the occasion being her eighty-third birthday. Mrs. Harris is Mrs. Hurley's aunt and this is her first visit to Ohio in twenty-eight years.

Those present at the dinner were Mrs. Harris, Miss Edith Harris, Mrs. M. E. Ward, Mrs. Oscar Smith, Mr. Paul Smith, all of Kokomo; Mr. and Mrs. William Ridenour, Mrs. Lydia Dumas, Dayton; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Smith, and family, Mr. and Mrs. Everett Dabe and son and Mrs. Hurley and son, Mr. Carey Hurley, this city.

TON GEE A REAL BLESSING

Says Middletown Lady Whose Stomach Caused Untold Misery

This well known resident of Middletown told us the other day that this wonderful medicine had benefited her wonderfully. In fact, here is her own story word for word:

MRS. STELLA MARKLAND, 1611 Central Ave., Middletown, Ohio. "I was feeling badly, my stomach was in a bad condition no matter what I ate caused me misery and pain and I was bothered with gas that would bloated and hurt very much. I was in constant misery."

"TON GEE was recommended to me and after several bottles I got relief. My stomach trouble disappeared, my bowels became regular and I began to feel fine. I also was troubled considerably from my kidneys but, they are now working fine. I can truthfully and gladly recommend TON GEE to anyone suffering as I did."

This is the true story of Mrs. Markland, the one she wrote in to us. If you are bothered with your stomach, if you are bilious, have heart burn, headaches, sour stomach or any kindred ailments, it will pay you to give TON GEE a trial.

TON GEE contains no harmful drugs, only selected Herbs, Roots, Barks, and Leaves mixed with the finest drugs obtainable and compounded by a registered druggist. Stop in DONGES DRUG STORE and let them tell you all about TON GEE. They recommend it!

Ady.

October 20," was written on the hearts.

Miss Grotteck was presented a miscellaneous array of gifts by the guests and the evening was spent with an informal social time. Later a salad course was served and a color scheme of yellow and white was carried out in the appointments.

Miss Galliger's guests for the evening besides Miss Grotteck were Mrs. George Grotteck, Mrs. Harry Donovan, the Misses Julia Ashbaugh, Beatrice Beyke, Rita Kennedy, Elizabeth McCurran and Mrs. William Horner, this city, and Mrs. Charles Lucas, Dayton.

Miss Grotteck is a graduate of St. Bridget High School with the class of 1926 and is employed as bookkeeper for the Carroll-Blinder Co. A number of pre-nuptial parties are being planned in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Williamson, N. Detroit St., who celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary recently, were also honored at the party.

The guests at the party included fourteen members of a club of which Mr. and Mrs. Kyle and Mr. and Mrs. Williamson are members, and four additional guests, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Adams, Washington C. H., and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Williamson, near Xenia.

Xenia Aeria, No. 1689, F. O. E., will hold a social meeting at the Eagles' Hall Friday evening.

Friends of the late Mr. William Rachford may call at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Coan, 325 Cincinnati Ave., any time Friday evening.

FROM her opening number, "Il Profeta," until her closing number, an aria from "Carmen," Mme. Marta Wittkowska, internationally famous contralto, thrilled her hearers at a concert at the Presbyterian Church, Market and King Sts., Thursday evening.

Together with a voice of almost unlimited possibilities, Madame Wittkowska possesses a charming personality and was enthusiastically received by an appreciative audience. Each of the singer's numbers was said to be outstanding in her interpretation but "Danny Boy," by Weatherly, received the most comment from her hearers. Her final number, selections from "Carmen," was presented in costume, and this was also well received by the audience.

Madame Wittkowska's accompanist was Mrs. Sellers, of Troy, and Mrs. Edward Wilson, also of Troy, announced the program. Preceding the final number Mrs. Wilson gave a short sketch of the opera, "Carmen."

The concert was under auspices of St. Agnes Guild of Christ Episcopal Church. Following the concert forty guests were entertained at an informal reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James M. Carper, N. Galloway St., for the pleasure of meeting Madame Wittkowska.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Devoe and family and Mrs. Josephine Claybaugh, Yellow Springs, entertained as their guests at dinner Sunday Mrs. Oliver Fleming, Miss Veda and Mr. Thomas Fleming, Mr. Roger Lacy, Wilmington; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Haworth and daughter, Louise, Mr. and Mrs. Harley Devoe, Port William and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph James, Xenia.

Mrs. Burch Smith, N. Detroit St., has returned home after spending a week with her mother, Mrs. Eva McWethy, Petersburg, Ky.

Miss Stella Beyhan, Hillsboro, has returned home after spending several days as the guest of Miss Bertha Hyman, E. Market St.

There will be inspection and initiation at the meeting of Spring Valley Grange Tuesday evening. Each family is asked to bring meat sandwiches.

Mr. Glenn Jenks, Jamestown, underwent an operation for the removal of his right eye at City Hospital, Springfield, Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Anderson, Union Road, are announcing the birth of a seven pound daughter at their home Thursday night.

Mrs. Fred Kennon, who has been confined to her home on W. Market St., suffering from an attack of inflammatory rheumatism, remains in about the same condition and is still confined to her bed.

Marvin Moore, employed at the Pennsylvania depot restaurant here, identified the top coat as his property, while the hat, stolen at the same place at the same time, belonged to Philip Campbell, also employed at the restaurant. Moore and Campbell signed the affidavit against Sharp.

Two young Xenia men, whom Sharp told police were with him at the dance, were arrested by police Thursday night and are being held for investigation, although they denied knowledge of the theft. The suspects are Arthur Graham, 24, of 248 Hillbrook Ave., on parole from the Mansfield reformatory, and Eugene Dales 18, R. R. No. 1, Yellow Springs.

Sharp's auto bore a Michigan license and the motor number had been ground off so as to be undistinguishable, according to police. Whether the two cans of gasoline, the lap robe and the second top coat also found in his car, were stolen, has not been determined.

Sharp was arrested by police about 1 a. m. Thursday and held for further investigation after officers found two cans of gasoline, two top coats, a hat and a lap robe in the rear of his auto.

The hat and one of the top coats were later identified as having been stolen from a parked car at a Jamestown dance last Tuesday night.

When Getting On or Off Buses Keep Your Eyes on the Traffic

With millions of school children using buses enroute to and from school each day, it is imperative that they be taught to watch traffic when boarding and leaving these buses, according to George Little, president of the Greene County Automobile Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

Mr. Little made this statement in connection with the issuance of the October AAA safety poster to schools in Xenia, which carries the warning:

"When Getting on or off buses, Keep your eyes on the traffic." The poster shows a group of youngsters entering and leaving a bus and is designed to impress upon the minds of children the importance of caution.

It is the second of the 1931-32 series, being issued to schools throughout the county as a feature of a nationwide campaign to teach school children the rudiments of safety.

Miss Mary Langan, student nurse at Good Samaritan Hospital, Cincinnati, is spending several days in this city being called here by the illness of her grandmother, Mrs. Martin Langan.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

MANCHURIA'S SECESSION

The report that a movement is on foot to set up a Manchurian republic separate from China is no more surprising than the Japanese Government's denial that it has any hand in fomenting political seditions in Manchuria. The surprising thing is that Manchuria has remained in political harness with China as long as it has.

The Manchus and the Chinese, while both members of the Mongolian race, are distant peoples, with different languages and traditions. After ruling China for more than two centuries the Manchus naturally thought themselves a little better than their subjects, although the latter outnumbered them fifteen or twenty to one. After the revolution of 1911, which ousted the Manchu dynasty from Peking, the Chinese recovered their superiority complex, flocked into Manchuria by the millions and conquered it by peaceful penetration. Chang Tso Lin and later his son, Chang Hsueh Liang, accepted the new order with as little show of ill grace as possible; but they have kept Manchuria out of complete submergence in the China system.

Japan, the while, has been peacefully working up from Korea in preparation for the day when she will need Manchuria as an overflow for her surplus population. Japan already can number approximately 96,000,000 subjects, who are increasing at the rate of something like 2,000,000 a year. She can't find room for them on her tiny archipelago. Already mistress of Korea, she naturally looks further inland for additional contiguous territory.

Since she went to war with China in 1894, Japan has not had her eyes off Manchuria. Whether or not her Government has had anything to do with the reported secessionist movement in central Manchuria, there is no doubt that it would welcome a step that, if successful, would make it easier to complete the absorption of a large slice of the mainland without having to fight China for it. Whether China would let Manchuria go in peace is another question. If Manchuria wants to be absorbed by Japan, secession points the way to her; if she doesn't want to be absorbed, she will be wise to remain loyal to her easy connection with China.

THE AMERICAN LEGION

The country is glad that the "boys" of the American Legion have had their annual good time recently. It listens with close attention to their action on such vital matters as prohibition, soldiers' bonus, etc. People do not always agree with the war veterans, but they feel that the voice of the men who entered or prepared themselves to enter the hell of fire in the World war, will always be entitled to respect.

These men who have exposed themselves to the suffering and anguish of the battle field, are not going to see the institutions of their country undermined. We know that they are heart and soul for the preservation of the American constitution and principles, according to their best lights.

One great trouble with our country is that it takes the obligations of citizenship so lightly. People do not regard them as seriously as they do a date at a football game. They forget to go to the polls when important issues are at stake, but they never forget an invitation out to a good dinner. The Legion stands as a perpetual protest against that light way of taking our citizenship. It tells people that eternal vigilance is the price of free institutions.

The most pathetic aspect of the Legion meetings, is the absence of many thousands of disabled veterans, whose hearts go out to these assemblies, but who are detained in their various hospitals and homes by war injuries, physical and mental.

To every one of these men who gave up all for our sakes, there goes out the word of sympathy, and the determination that they shall have good care. They were not physically present at Detroit, but the thought of them was uppermost in every mind.

WILL TINKER BALKY MACHINE

The prospective visit of Premier Laval of France to Washington, where he will consult with President Hoover, is an epoch making event. The world's industrial and financial machinery has been balking, and these heads of great governments must find some way to set it going.

Formerly the United States had to go to Europe when it wanted such help. Now Europe comes to us. That change should not lead to any vain glory. It is due to our good fortune quite as much as to our merit. America has become the most powerful nation, and power brings added responsibility.

The problems of the world are not difficult of settlement, if only the nations will act like reasonable beings. In the past they were all so set on their fixed ideas, that they could not co-operate. The great effort made by the French premier to visit Washington at least shows an increased spirit of conciliation.

The South certainly is degenerating. Gov. Long has not yet sent a challenge to the Texas Legislature to meet him collectively on the field of honor.

The Toledo Blade tells of a Canadian visitor who said he saw a five-headed fish. What sort of stuff is it they hand out to their guests down in Toledo?

It was quite superfluous for Postmaster General Brown to remind postmasters not in the classified list that they are at perfect liberty to be active in politics. They all know it.

France, which couldn't possibly pay its honest debt to this country without getting a big reduction, now struts about boasting that it is the best beeled country in Europe. Well, there are ways and ways of acquiring prosperity.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL

NEW YORK.—When is a dog not a dog? Ans.: In Manhattan, where pets are not pleasant animals to be proud individuals who are never to be affronted with impunity. There are chows and Pekineses here possessed of more flunkies, cars, perfumed baths, invitations to functions and temperaments than Peggy Hopkins Joyce.

The "million-dollar parade ground" in which the pampered canine of the late Miss Ella Wendell used to sun himself, while real estate corporations bid in vain for that plot of Fifth avenue mansion adjoining the old Wendell mansion, is a matter of common knowledge. And this was not the striking exception that newspaper stories seemed to imply. I know many similar cases.

The explanation may lie in the vast loneliness of Manhattan. Intimate friendships, particularly between women, are rare; there are no back fences to lean across in the interchange of neighborhood gossip. Such news files here through the columns of daily papers, or impersonal medium at best. The result is that pet take on a human relationship with their owners never possible in small towns in exactly the same way.

The wife of a friend of mine is rumored to hold long, confidential conversations with her wire-haired terrier while her husband is away at the office. She will not permit couples with young children to visit her home. Young humans annoy her terrier and make the beast jealous. On the last occasion when a child was in the house the pup was nervous and distraught for days. He had to be taken to the shore for thorough rest and recuperation.

And yesterday afternoon, strolling past the Fifty-ninth street entrance to the Plaza Hotel, I glimpsed a handsome lady entering her limousine while the doorman escorted a haughty-eyed Scotch terrier from the vestibule. I recognized Mrs. Clara Belle Walsh immediately. She is one of the town's most luminous society matrons, one of the few who still conduct "salons" in the grand old style. She is a Kentucky blue-blood—before which even New York continues to salaam.

Her dog is known the length of Park avenue's fashionable section. The canine is spoken of in Newport and Palm Beach in the same tones that are reserved for prominent sportsmen.

"Mr. P. O. Skippy Walsh" is the name cryptically engraved on the terrier's own calling cards. When his mistress makes her social rounds, she more often than not leaves cards for both herself and "Mr. P. O. S. Walsh." Friends are flattered by the gesture.

FAME

When Charles Evans Hughes—who as Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court yields more power quietly than Mussolini in all his pomp—returned from abroad recently he refused to let photographers snap him at the dock. He was acting as free realized, in simple self-defense.

I saw the patriarchal Chief Justice out for a walk on Fifth avenue this morning. The street was crowded. Hughes treated his way through the mob without so much as a glance from anyone. He was unattended by a single secret service operative (who, I recall from Washington days, always were clearly discernible a few paces behind the President). He must have glided in his freedom from the capers. Serene in his beard and comparative anonymity, he could lead an almost private life.

J. P. Morgan, another avowed enemy of photographers, has achieved the same placidity.

THE WESTERN FRONT, 1931!

RESPONSE OF BUSINESS TO HEAVY WAGE CUTTING IS MUCH DISPUTED ISSUE

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON.—The steel industry's recent 10 per cent wage slash not only is not the first that any industry has made since the depression set in; it is not the deepest.

However, it affects the greatest number of workers at once. It is an open-and-above-board slash, whereas most of those which have preceded it have been disguised in one way or another. And unquestionably it will be accepted by more employers, as an example to be imitated.

In brief, it is widely admitted in official circles in Washington that the steel trade's action probably marks the beginning of a general curbing in the resistance bill-into offered by organized labor, with President Hoover's strong encouragement, to a reduction of wages in accordance with what is described as the new commodity price level.

How business will respond to the wage trend downward is a vehemently disputed issue.

Curiously enough the group which has most strenuously opposed a reduction in the size of pay envelopes consists by no means wholly of the folk best known as defenders of labor's interests, but numbers also a quite conspicuous sprinkling of individuals usually classed among the hardest-boiled of conservatives. On the other side, not indeed, actually in favor of lower wages, but at least speaking of them as inevitable are several public men with notable records as liberals, even radicals.

The question between them, of course, is:

Does very high pay, by giving the masses a large buying power, make for commercial prosperity?—or—is the country's economic balance so disturbed by disproportionately high wages, paid to certain classes of labor, that other large classes suffer, with hard times as a consequence?

For example: Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, who frankly calls himself an ultra-conservative, while progressives refer to him as an out-and-out reactionary, in a conversation I had with him a fortnight or two ago, said:

"Above everything, wages must be maintained.

"This country, greatly to its own advantage, is upon a very high price level. It is the first importance to support that level by very highly paid labor."

About the same time Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota, an outstanding progressive, told me:

"Industrial labor simply cannot continue to receive war wages with everything else deflated. Unemployment is the inevitable result of attempting it."

"Conspicuously in the transportation field an enormous proportion of workers are idle, though the railroaders men who do hold their jobs still draw pay at pre-deflation figures. In my opinion a moderate all-around reduction would have been, on the average, much better."

In opposition to Senator Frazier's view, Senator James Couzens of Michigan contends that labor never did receive its just due.

"If the workman had been fairly paid when commodity prices were at their peak," argues the Wolverine statesman, "it might be reasonable to say that he ought to be satisfied with a cut as the cost of living begins to decline, but he was not fairly paid. The advent of the depression proved it. Times tightened because of the inadequacy of the masses' purchasing power. An equitable balance might be established by the continuance of peak wages with declining living costs; not by wage reduction to match reduced prices of life's requirements."

Representative Percy E. Quinn of Mississippi, one of congress' foremost economic authorities, shakes his head, however, at the suggestion that wage inflation, as a means of maintaining or recovering prosperity is a practical proposition.

"High wages are a fine thing," he agrees, "for particular industries which are directly dependent on them, but to expect them to remain long above the normal general price level is to expect the impossible, even if desirable."

Perhaps it is significant that farm spokesmen (Senator Frazier from the northern wheat belt and Representative Quinn from the southern cotton area), who may attribute agriculture's prolonged distress to the correspondingly prolonged inflation of urban industry are less perturbed at the latter, in turn, than those of the type of the factory-trained Senator Couzens and of Senator Watson, traditional guardian of the National Association of Manufacturers' interests.

At any rate, agriculture's plight, of being compelled to sell in a deflated market and buy in an inflated one, is of a decade's standing.

The idea that labor's present troubles are largely due to the farmers' inability to buy normally for so extended a period also evidently was in both Senator Frazier's and Representative Quinn's minds at the time they expressed themselves as quoted above, which was before the cut in steel wages.

It is evident, at all events, that the prospect of wage readjustment to a lower index level is not unanimously regarded as certain to make bad matters worse.

On the contrary, there is a school of thought (and not altogether reactionary thought) which foresees an improvement in it.

It must be confessed that it is an improvement which seems to be predicated upon an anticipation that urban labor will be brought part way down to the level of agriculture, in order to enable agriculture, in or der to enable agriculture, to become well liked. Sometimes a change of associates will make all the difference; sometimes the folk she has been with all the time wake up to her charms.

Fried Apple and Bacon Rings
Riced Potatoes Cabbage Salad
Dainty Marshmallows
Coffee or Tea Milk for Children
Bacon and apples make a satisfactory supper or dinner dish for warm or cold weather. You might, if you wish, substitute rice for the potatoes.

Today's Recipes

Fried Bacon and Apple Rings—Lay strips of bacon in a cold or moderately heavy hot skillet. Cook slowly and turn bacon frequently. When done to the desired stage, remove bacon and lay it on absorbent paper. If cooking a large quantity of bacon, pour the fat off occasionally. Wash and core apples and cut them crosswise into thick slices. Lay a single layer of apple rings in the hot bacon fat and sprinkle with sugar, cover partly, turn the rings occasionally and cook until tender and lightly brown. Serve apple rings around the bacon.

Ripe Cucumber Catsup—Pare cucumbers, discard seed and pulp. Chop and measure the remainder. To each quart of cucumbers add one cup chopped onions and two large green peppers, chopped. Pour on just enough water to keep the mixture from sticking and simmer until the cucumbers are tender. Heat two cups of vinegar, one cup sugar, two tablespoons mustard and one tablespoon salt to the boiling point. Add the cooked vegetables and continue cooking until the catsup is clear. Seal while hot in bottles or jars.

Dainty Marshmallows—Two eggs whites, one-half glass jelly, one cup crushed pineapple, six marshmallows, one cup broken macaroons, grated sweet chocolate. Place in a small bowl the egg whites and one-half glass of your favorite jelly. Whip to a stiff meringue, then fold in crushed pineapple and macaroons broken in small pieces. Add marshmallows cut fine. Put in tall glasses and dust with grated sweet chocolate. Serve ice cold.

A bushel of corn (60 pounds) produces approximately 25 to 30 pounds of dextrose; five pounds of hydrolyzed melasses; one pound of oil, and 27 pounds of feed.

In 1928 over 400,000,000 pounds of fish, valued at $2,300,000, were landed on the west coast of Madras, India.

City School Safeguards Health

By LOGAN CLENDENIN, M. D.

Thirty years ago in our public school system only Johnny's mind went to school. Now the whole child goes—body, mind and soul. With the enormous increase in the attendance at public schools, teaching school has become the largest business of the state. About a fourth of the population is under the states' care for about a fourth of the time five days a week.

This enormous responsibility is handled from the point of view of the scholar's hygiene very successfully. But good habits in school, health habits, posture habits can be broken by careless supervision at home. For that reason let us examine some of the principles of school sanitation in order that discipline at home may help and not hinder the school authorities.

Much of the aptness of the child's work at school is determined by his life at home. This includes the nourishing quality of the food, the amount of sleep, the ventilation of the bed chamber, and other such things—the presence of harmony, the absence of strife, the encouragement to study and yet not over-encouragement or insistence on scholastic honors and success for their own sakes. In short, a wholesome parental attitude is the most valuable asset the child can have in facing the troubles and triumphs of school life.

Fatigue is probably the greatest enemy of the school child. The complaint of fatigue in a child is always a sign of danger—for the active young organism should not know what means.

Fatigue is more often the result of improper home conditions than of anything that occurs during school hours. Lack of restful sleep, lack of good breakfasts, lack of ventilation at home—are all factors in its production.

Home work must be regulated so the child has a certain amount of time in which to do what it likes.

Initiative and self-reliance can be developed only in that way. Too exciting a life away from school is not good. The competition and contacts of school are themselves exciting. And too much radio or movies or anything of that sort which does not originate inside the child's own imagination is likely to fatigue a sensitive young nervous system. The talkies are to the emotional life of a child what candy is to its nutritional life.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

J. D.: "What is the cause of some men having to shave before others do? Is this due to any condition of the blood?"

"What is albumin, and what is its purpose?"

Answer: 1. Early maturity of hair growth on the male face is usually accompanied by early maturity of the whole body. The opposite applies to late appearance of a heavy beard. In the sense you mean it is not due to any condition of the blood.

2. Albumin is the name given to many forms of protein food. Its role in nutrition is to build tissue and to some extent furnish energy. If you mean albumin in the urine this is due in most cases to disease of the kidneys; sometimes to disease of other parts of the body (i. e. pneumonia); occasionally as for the so-called functional albuminuria of young people it is probably of no serious significance.

Editor's Note: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendenin can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendenin, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Bedwetting and Cauterization," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Skin."

Two Girls Don't Make Hit

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

The problem of the good looking, well dressed girl who doesn't make a hit with the boys always is a puzzle when you can't see her to check up on her. And it is even a problem sometimes when you can. At least for a mere female to whom the male point of view is more or less of an enigma.

Little Wallflower: It may be that your brother is right, dear, that you have a bit of standoffish air that scares the boys. Are you sure that even though you want to appear friendly you do not hold yourself back and give the impression of stiffness?

Boys and girls are much like sheep, Little Wallflower. They follow where others lead. If a girl is liked by one or two, all the others scramble for her favor and thus make her popular. And if, for any even slight reasons, she does not gain the favor of the few, the many are likely to slight her.

Such unpopularity is generally only temporary, however. If a girl is really nice looking, pleasant, as to dress and sweet and friendly, she will eventually make friends and become well liked. Sometimes a change of associates will make all the difference; sometimes the folk she has been with all the time wake up to her charms.

I would try hard not to worry about the matter. Try to gather a few congenial young people about you in your home and have a good time that way. My guess is that the situation is as I said, temporary, and if you don't grieve about it it will pass. No, I don't think nationality has anything to do with it, unless it makes you conscious of a difference. It's a question of personality.

Hopeless: Oh, you're not quite hopeless, are you? Return the boy's "friendly hello" with an equally friendly one, and maybe he'll stop and talk instead of passing by.

Fidels: It may be that your girl knows that, generally speaking, what is hard to get is what a man wants, and she acts as she does to keep you guessing and interested.

Why don't you try a bit of indifference yourself and see if it will make her warm up a bit?

Wondering: Your girl friend probably meant what she said when she told you that you would love her more if she was mean to you. Maybe she has had some experience with a friend to whom she was sweet and he didn't appreciate it. Perhaps, also, if you acted a little more indifferent to her she would be afraid she was losing you and treat you with more consideration.

Worried: Too bad you and your girl friend get "bawled out" by your parents when there is no cause. I think girls of your age should be allowed to go with boys that your parents know and trust. If you do not abuse the privilege. But if said parents object, I hardly know what you can do except to try to be patient and remember that you are growing older fast and may then have your good times. In the meantime you girls can console one another and have good times together.

APPLE JAM

(Mrs. Mary Morton's Daily Tested Recipe)

Four pounds new tart apples, two pounds white corn syrup, two pounds sugar, rind and juice of two lemons, three-fourths ounce of ground ginger, six cloves, peel, core and cut apples into slices. Place in a preserving kettle with the sugar and syrup, rind and juice of the lemons, ginger and cloves. Boil from one and one-half to two hours.

The Smithsonian Institute at Washington, D. C., was established by statute in 1846, under the terms of the will of James Smithson, an Englishman, who bequeathed his fortune in 1826 to the United States to found an institution for the "increase and diffusion of knowledge among men." From the income of the fund a building, known as the Smithsonian building, was erected on land given by the United States.

Change Self By Coiffure

By GLADYS GLAD

As the charming Ginger Rogers puts it, there's no fun in being the same person all the time. It becomes tiresome, having to see the same old face day after day, having to portray the same type of character. According to Ginger, variety is the very spice of life. And there's nothing that contributes more to a change in character than a change in coiffure.

Ginger herself is fair enough proof of what a coiffure can do to change a girl. When she first entered the theatrical profession, she was a saucy little comedienne. And her marish bob harmonized perfectly with that type of character. But later when she was placed under contract to play ingenue roles in the movies, she had to adopt a coiffure more in keeping with her new character. And her present soft, fluffy hair style is ideal for the ingenue roles in which she is featured.

If you're grown tired of the sameness of your appearance, try adopting a new coiffure, and see if it doesn't make you feel like a new woman. You can step out in practically any hair arrangement and still be in style today. The only thing you must remember is that the secret of evolving a becoming hair style for yourself lies in playing up your good points and hiding your defects. If, for instance, you have pretty ears, don't hide them. Show 'em to the public. But if they resemble the handles on a loving cup, keep them well concealed. The whole trick is merely to hide what isn't pleasing and reveal what is.

Of course, each and every one of you may not be able to judge impartially of your own good and bad points. And, therefore, if it is possible for you to have a professional's unbiased assistance in experimenting with coiffures, all the better. But if the old bankroll doesn't permit of a professional's services, do your own experimenting. I shall, in my next two articles, describe a number of current coiffures that are both youthful and easy to arrange. And if you're tired of your present hair style, try some of the new ones. One of them might be the very making of you.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Hand Lotion

G. S.: The hand lotion you refer to is made of three parts of rosewater to one part of glycerine. You may make as large a quantity as you desire.

Exercise

Dolores: Refrain from doing any exercises involving the leg muscles until the muscles have become soft and pliable. Then vigorous exercise will break up any fatty tissues.

Exercise

F. V.: Morning is an excellent time for exercising, unless you are high-strung, nervous, or in ill-health. In such a case, slow, rhythmic exercises in the evening are best.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

Probably the first society editor ever to attempt the task of picking winners of collegiate football games, makes her debut this week end as a forecaster. We have reference to Mildred Mason, director of the radio column, who, after holding out for a steady state for several football seasons past, has at last been talked into something she may live to regret after Saturday.

Confronted with twelve scheduled games on which to base her selections, "Winnie" is sure only of the fact Notre Dame will beat Indiana, although she has probably guessed about right on most of the other eleven games, as follows:

Boston Col. to beat Dayton.
Pittsburgh to beat Iowa.
Minnesota to beat Oklahoma Ag.
Carnegie Tech to beat W. and J.
Fordham to beat West Virginia.
Georgetown to beat W. Maryland.
NOTRE DAME to beat Indiana.
Northwestern to beat Nebraska.
Ohio U. to beat Butler.
Ohio Wesleyan to beat Heidelberg.
Wisconsin to beat N. Dakota Ag.

GUN GIRL BELIEVES SHE'LL BEAT CHAIR

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 2.—Today—The day she was to have walked to the electric chair—found Mrs. Maude Lowther, the Jefferson, O., "Gun Girl," with a bible, a cross, word puzzle and a stack of needlework at her side, and a feeling that she will never be executed in her heart.

Mrs. Lowther, a 23-year-old part-Indian girl, convicted of the murder of Mrs. Tibby Smith, wife of her lover recently was granted an indefinite stay of execution, delaying her electrocution, but her watchers at the city jail here, where she is imprisoned, declare she thinks her electrocution has been postponed for all time.

"I'll never be electrocuted—the state will send me to the Marysville reformatory for women, instead," Mrs. Preston E. Thomas, wife of the warden of Ohio Penitentiary, quoted her saying.

Mrs. Thomas said the "Gun Girl" has long since ceased worrying about the execution ordered for her by the state.

She bases her confidence on the belief that the state of Ohio will not permit the electrocution of a woman, according to Mrs. Thomas.

JEFFERSON BEATS SABINA HIGH 43-4

Jefferson Twp. High School's baseball team will meet the Springfield Valley nine in a return game on the Valley diamond late Friday afternoon.

Jefferson made some kind of a record Tuesday night, running up a score of 43 to 4 in a six-inning game with Sabina, then on Wednesday night, defeated Jeffersonville, 7 to 5, in seven innings at Bowersville, Jasper, winning pitcher, fanned eleven batters. Score of Jefferson-Jeffersonville game by innings:

Jeffersonville — 2 3 0 0 1 0 6
Jefferson Twp. — 0 0 2 0 5 0 x-7

REALTY OPERATOR FACES PRISON TERM

ZANESVILLE, O., Oct. 2.—Sentences involving a maximum of forty years imprisonment in Ohio Penitentiary hung over William A. Lorimer, 50, local real estate and insurance operator, today following his plea of guilty yesterday to four charges of embezzlement.

Lorimer was sentenced in Common Pleas Court here to serve from one to ten years on each of the four counts against him. The sentences will run consecutively. Embezzlement charges against Lorimer were based upon dealings which the real estate and insurance operator had with the defunct State Security Bank here. The institution was closed last February 5.

OCTOGENARIAN I SBRIDE
BUCYRUS, O., Oct. 2.—Believed to be the most elderly bride in Ohio, Mrs. Lucy Geiger, 83, recently became the bride of Frank Sprow, 78, at a quiet ceremony performed at Brokenwood near here. The ceremony was performed on the lawn of the Frank Lahman home. The couple will reside in Brokenwood.

EIGHT NEW AIRPORTS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 2.—Immediate establishment of municipal airports has been determined by eight additional American cities, according to the Department of Commerce. The cities are: Merced, Cal.; Ephrata, Wash.; Saint Clairsville, O.; Petersburg, Va.; Sonoma, Cal.; Brunswick, Ga.; Shelby, Mont.; Ploche, Nev.; and Flint, Mich. where an airport already has been established.

ROARING THOUSANDS SEE FIRST SERIES GAME

Here's the capacity crowd which jammed Sportsman's park, St. Louis, to view the first world series game between the Philadelphia Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals. But all this moral support availed the home town Cardinals little for they lost, 6-2 after leading.

VANCE DISBARMENT TRIAL IS LAUNCHED

URBANA, O., Oct. 2.—Taking of testimony was to begin here today in the disbarment trial of Prosecuting Attorney William M. Vance, charged with unprofessional conduct and misconduct in office.

The charges against Vance were lodged by members of the Campaign County Bar Association.

Opening pleas in the trial of the prosecuting attorney were made yesterday before Common Pleas Judge Frank M. Clevenger, assigned here to the case by Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall.

Vance was being defended in his trial by Attorneys W. R. Pomerene of Columbus, S. S. Deaton of Urbana, W. M. Pomerene of Coshocton and Paul T. Neglev of Pittsburgh.

MUNICIPAL COURT

TWO GIVEN FINES
William Derrick, 31, was fined the maximum assessment, $100 and costs for drunkenness and disorderly conduct by Municipal Judge E. Dawson Smith Friday morning. He was arrested on Bellbrook Ave. and in default of payment, was sent to jail.

Joseph Washington, 36, colored, also was ordered committed to jail by Judge Smith in lieu of payment of a fine of $25 and costs imposed for drunk and disorderly.

EVEN BOOTLEGGER
DEPRESSED

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 2.—The once-opulent bootlegger, with his dazzling diamonds and his shiny automobiles, is now wearing patches on his pants.

In short, he's broke. Deputy State Commissioner E. G. Matthews expressed that opinion here today, declaring the depression has hit the bootlegger a hard blow.

His statement, he said, was based on a study of bootleg arrests by the state prohibition department revealing that only about one-fourth of the fines assessed can be collected.

The remainder of the fines are "laid out" in jails.

The drinking public which has also been hit by economic conditions is consuming far less liquor than before and is being satisfied with home-manufactured beer, Matthews said.

GERMAN FILM STAR TWICE A PRIZE WINNING BEAUTY

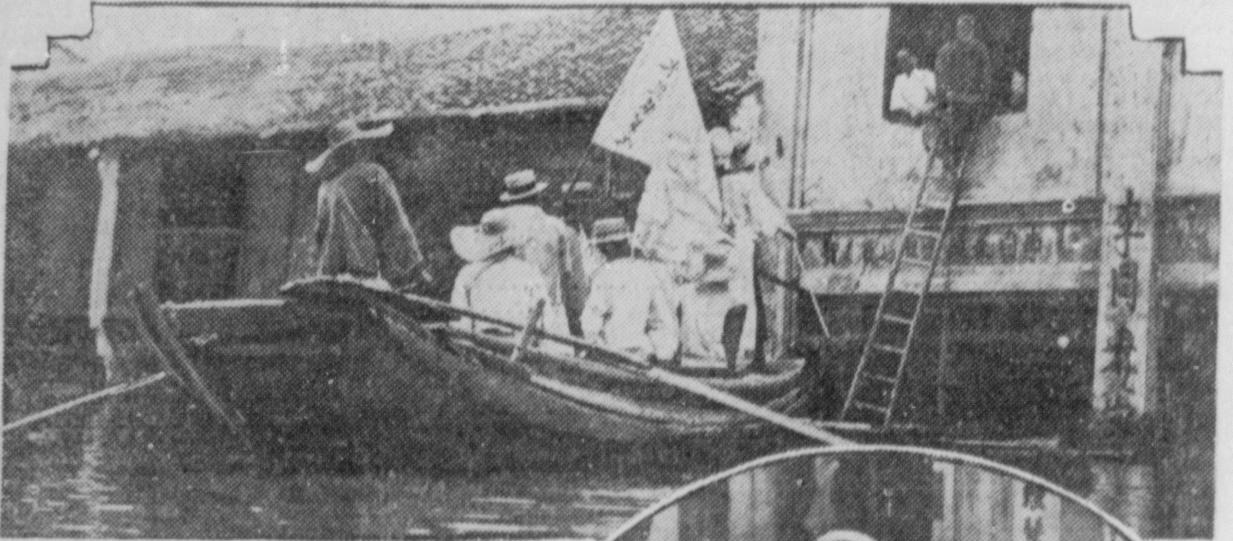

Double beauty is registered by this portrait. It is a prize winning study of the beautiful Lillian Harvey, British film star, exhibited in Berlin. It is the work of Professor Angelo of Budapest. Although Miss Harvey is British she is a favorite German cinema actress. When the World war broke out she was in Germany and has remained there ever since.

Water, Water Everywhere—in China

Hundreds were drowned and it is estimated that 30,000,000 were rendered homeless by the disastrous floods that inundated vast areas of China in the vicinity of the Yangtze River. Pestilence and starvation are taking a heavy toll daily, despite the heroic work of many relief organizations. Top panel shows a family, marooned by the flood in the upper story of their home, receiving food from one of the relief agencies, that utilized a crude boat for its errand of mercy. Left shows a coolie who is managing to keep his head above water and earn a few cents a day selling meals to other sufferers. Right shows a U. S. sailor going for a ride on what was once Hankow's main street in a sea-going rickshaw.

American Peer and Bride

Lord Fermoy, christened Edmund Maurice Roche as the first of the twin sons born to the former Fanny Work, of New York, and James Burke-Roche, an Irish nobleman, and raised in America, is shown leaving the church in Bieldside, Aberdeen, Scotland, with his bride, the former Ruth Gill, following their marriage. Lord Fermoy, the only member of Parliament to graduate from Harvard University, and well known in New York and Boston, won the right to his title by being born one minute ahead of his twin brother.

Happy as New Legion Head

Henry L. Stevens, of Warsaw, N. C., the newly-elected National Commander of the American Legion, was photographed in this joyous pose with Mrs. Stevens immediately after his election by the thirteenth annual convention of the war veterans in Detroit. Stevens, who is an attorney, succeeds Ralph T. O'Neil.

Happily Divorced!

Instead of employing the customary "happily married" expression, this couple is joyous because they are "happily divorced"—or are going through the well-oiled process developed by Reno, Nevada. Dorothy McMartin, perched on top of "Friend Husband's" shoulders at Reno, gives more of an impression of having just been married instead of waiting for a divorce in the oasis of single blessedness.

U. S. Court Portia

Georgia Carpenter Montgomery (above) enjoys the enviable distinction of being accredited to practice law in the United States District Court at San Francisco. This girl, who is one of very few of her sex in the country who may argue cases in a Federal Court, is the recent bride of Hugh Montgomery, counsel for a steamship line. Mrs. Montgomery is specializing in admiralty law and "personal relations" cases.

Live in Perfect Harmony!

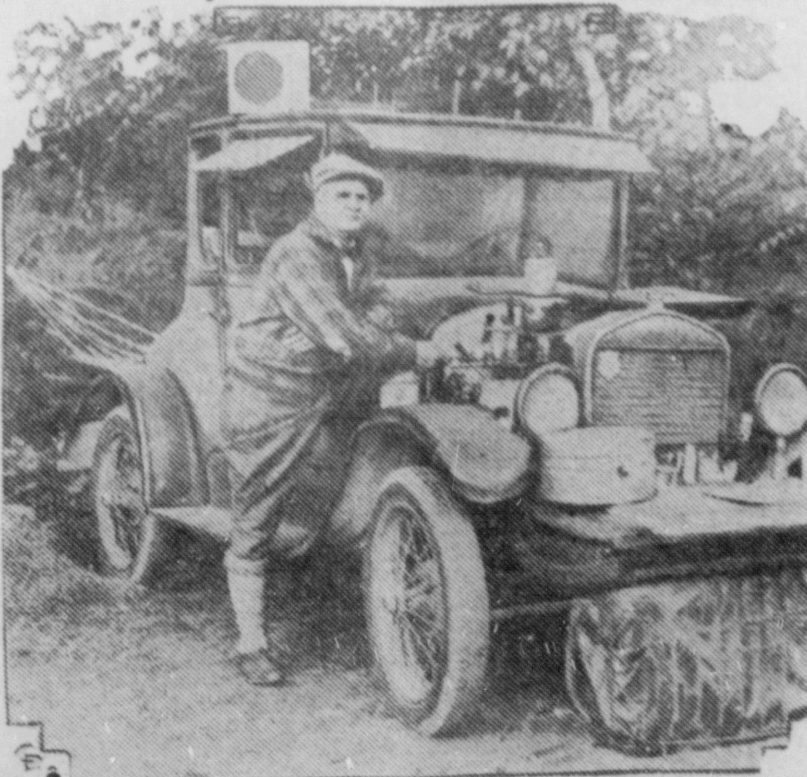

If any dissention arises among these 8-year-old negro quadruplets from the Jenkins Orphanage Institute in Charleston, S. C., they have only to lift their voices in song—and perfect harmony reigns! The brothers' voices cover a complete range of pitch and blend in a natural quartet, even including a bass voice. Left to right, the warbling quadruplets are Emerson, Methaniel, James and Allen Fox. None has had any singing lessons.

HERE'S REAL NEWS, NOT FROM RENO

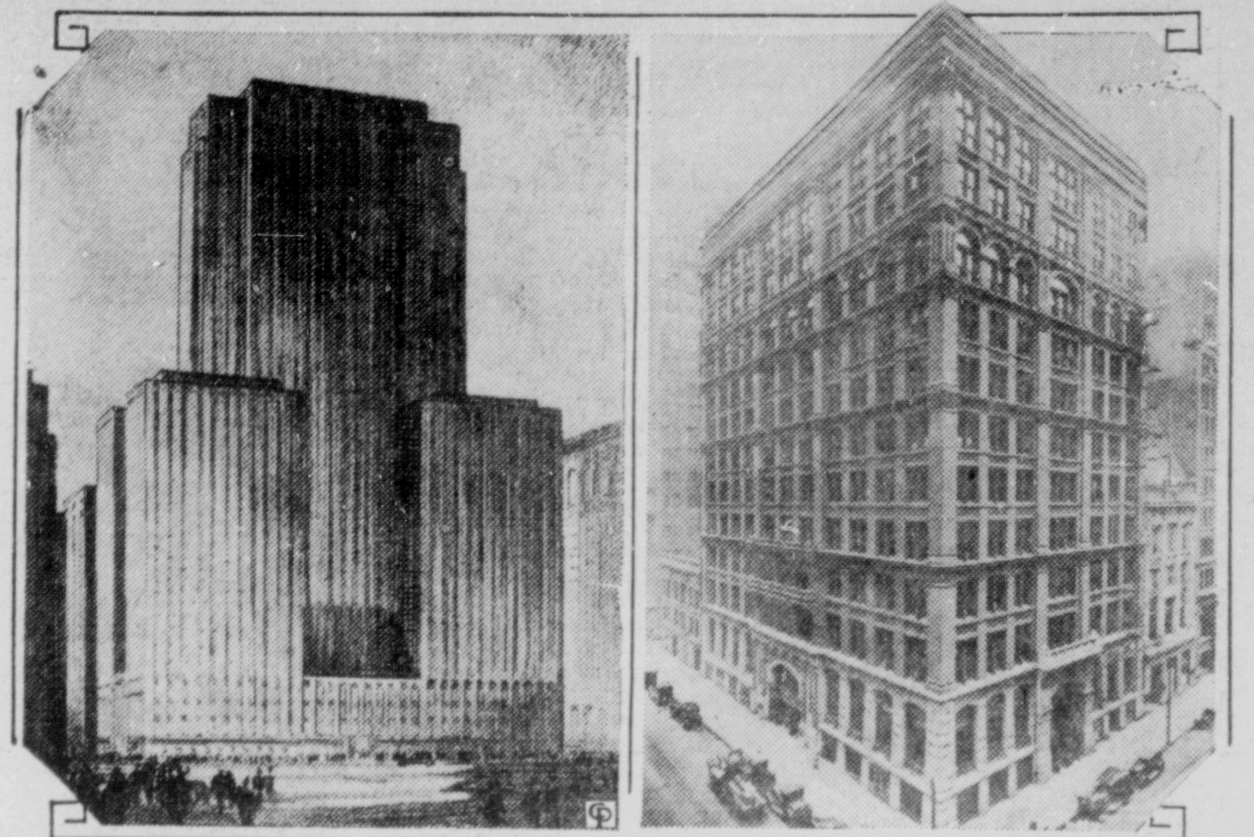

Few couples have lived together as long as Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Persing of Clyde, O., who have just celebrated their seventieth wedding anniversary. He is 94 and she is 90. They were married at Bellevue, O., in 1861, and Persing went to war a year later. He returned to his bride three years later, and they never have been separated, even for a day, since that time.

Take My Car—Take My Home

One hundred per cent happy is "Dick" Hutchinson (above), of Neponset, Mass., who has been unemployed for some time and who finds economy a valuable asset. He is shown with his flivver palace which he set up near Squantum, Mass. Included in the traveling home are a swing for sleeping, cooking utensils used for preparing meals from the heat of the motor, collapsible table, a radio set and other comforts.

CHICAGO SEES PASSING OF FIRST U. S. SKYSCRAPER

A world-famous architectural milestone passes from Chicago with the tearing down of the 12-story Home Insurance building, right, the first skeleton skyscraper ever erected. "When the building was being constructed, in 1884, work was stopped until the architect assured the owners and the public that the towering structure would not expand with the heat and push the walls into the crowded streets below. In its place the 42-story structure at left will rise, at LaSalle and Adams streets. It is being built by the Marshall Field estate, which has other lofty buildings.

Jailed in Error

Gertrude Pulscher (above), of Jamestown, N. D., an art student in Paris, is back in the French capital none the worse after an adventure which included spending 20 hours in a jail at Bardonecchia, Italy. Freed as soon as it was evident a case of mistaken identity had occurred, Miss Pulscher returned to Paris to tell a story of an unusual error caused by her striking resemblance to an American woman who is wanted by police for subversive activities against the Italian Government.

Clue in "Pirate" Murder

District Attorney Alexander Blue (left), of Suffolk County, N. Y., and Fred Munder, an assistant, are shown examining the anchor of the yacht Penguin, from which Benjamin F. Collins allegedly was thrown to his death by two mysterious "pirates." The anchor is expected to prove an important clue in the solution of the strange case by District Attorney Blue, who is in charge of the investigation into the murder.

Welcome, Friend!

Forget not to show love unto strangers. —Hebrews 13:2

SUNDAY there may be a stranger in your pew. You will contribute to the powerful "first impressions" the Church will make upon him. If he is ignored, he will call the habitual attendants "cold." If he is cordially greeted, he will recall the place and service with delight.

Most unfriendliness is unintentional; but where it exists, a beautiful building, a stirring sermon, perfect music, are discounted by the stranger. When folk are friendly, they make even the humblest Church attractive.

In God's house good-will should be active. How easy to do great service with a sincere "Welcome, Friend!"

To Visitors

A little girl began to apportion her ten pennies. "That one's for God; that's little brother's; two are for candy; five for my bank; and this one's for God."
"I thought you said the first one was God's," said her aunt.
"Yes, that belongs to Him. This is a present."

To Parents

The years succeed each other with almost dizzying swiftness, and the little children whose guidance is now wholly in your hands will in a short time have grown "beyond your love and care." How well they will be prepared to face the tests of life and to cope with its temptations, depends upon the influences with which you surround them now. Take the children to Sunday School.

CHAPTER 52

CROSSES, UNIQUE WARNING, GONE FROM ROADS

KATHERINE BRUSH, popular novelist, whose newest book, "Red-Headed Woman" has just been published in serial form, is at least two years behind in a statement in her new story, it is said.

The novelist, who formerly lived at East Liverpool, has given her story an eastern Ohio locale and refers, in one place, to the white crosses at railway crossings that mark where tragedies have occurred.

The white crosses, it will be recalled, represented the consummation of an idea by former Governor A. V. Donahay that they would serve as reminders to motorists to exercise caution at crossings. From fifteen to twenty-five of these crosses dotted crossing locations in Greene County at one time, it is estimated by Henry W. Walsh, resident state highway engineer here.

When Robert N. Waid became state highway director more than two years ago with the Myers V. Cooper administration, he ordered the crosses removed from the roads, declaring he didn't want to "make a cemetery of the highways."

Because of the morbid nature of the warnings, the crosses never won full approval of the traveling public although the idea was so unusual that it attracted considerable attention all over the country.

Walsh says a sharp divergence of opinion had always existed among autoists as to the merits of the crosses. Thus, Mrs. Brush may now learn, Ohio's crossings are now crosses.

There seemed a million ways to win him . . . to tell him she loved him . . . or just to be happy seeing him. Why had she never thought of one of these until now . . . until it was too late.

"What you need, baby, is a little drink," Joe was saying. "You're cold as a frog and you're jumping like one, too."

She realized then that she had leaned over on her arms and her body twitched.

The men straightened up from his squatting position and tightened his belt.

"Tell you what—I'll go get you a little drink . . . and right out here in the starlight we'll have a little party. How 'bout it?"

She said nothing and he walked unsteadily away from her.

So, Carlton had deserted. Still, why not? Everyone should look out for himself. He had jumped out into the swirling, lapping bay.

Natalie managed to get on her feet. Her head felt strange and her knees bent weakly. She caught to the box to steady herself and took several deep breaths before she got her balance. Shivering she walked to the side of the boat and caught hold.

It was dark down there. The big boat sloshed in the larger waves as it were a chip. Joe would be back soon. She could feel the heat of his hand on her shoulder and the thought of his eyes made her cringe.

"I'll do it!" she said half aloud. "I'll jump . . ." She clutched the side. Then she saw a ladder hanging there. She had never climbed down a rope ladder. The rope would cut into the soles of her tender feet, but she would hold so tightly with her hands that would not matter.

Nothing would matter . . . she would let herself into the cold, swirling water and hold her breath and—float. She grasped the ladder with her stiff, eager hands and lifted one leg over . . .

"Naw, I wouldn't . . ." She looked up into the amused, dark face of Joe. He chuckled.

Natalie shivered and felt as if she would fall over the side of the rocking boat. He caught her by the arm and pulled her back to the deck and toward the box where she had been before.

He led her to the box and pulled over another for himself.

"You know about how long you would last down there . . . but that long," he snapped his thumb and forefinger.

He pulled a bottle of liquor from his hip pocket and took a metal top off of it. The top formed a small cup, which he filled and held out to Natalie.

"A little nip will fix you up," he said, holding it near her mouth.

She pushed his hand away, spilling some of the contents.

"Maybe you'd rather have the whole bottle," he said, not bad humoredly. "I'll take this little nip myself." He turned the cup up and drained it quickly.

He held the bottle out to her, but she shook her head.

"Don't tell me your kind don't drink!" he said, pouring another drink into the metal cup.

"I—don't."

"Well, it's a good time to be gin."

She shuddered in answer. It was obvious that he had had quite a few drinks during the past few hours. His eyes were blood shot and shining and the muscles of his face sagged.

The hemp sack lay on the deck at her feet. She pulled it up over her naked knees. It made her feel a little shielded from his eyes.

"What's you bein' modest for, baby?" he asked, his speech thick. His rough hand patted her knee and then clutched at the hemp sack as if he would tear it away.

Natalie held the sack in place. She wondered how she might change the trend of his thoughts. Desperately she thought of Carlton.

"Do you think that he—he drowned out there?"

"Sure, he did. Or if I didn't think so I wouldn't be laughing."

He seemed to enjoy her reaction to that remark.

"If he ain't finished out there the chert will be wondering why tomorrow . . . all right, all right! He chert wouldn't like it because he got away alive. Dead, don't matter."

His arm went around her as she

GRAIN WEEVIL ATTACKS WHEAT IN BINS COUNTY AGENT LEARNS

With the unusually large storage of wheat in farm bins in Greene County reports are being received by County Agent E. A. Drake that grain weevil has been found in many bins and unless they are killed serious damage may result. The insect is a small brown beetle about one eighth of an inch in length with a long snout with which it bores into the kernels of the grain. The treatment recommended for their control is gassing with carbon bisulfide.

This is a liquid which can be purchased in tightly sealed cans at any drug store. When exposed to the air it evaporates rapidly into a gas that is heavier than air. When the gas sinks throughout the grain it displaces the air and kills all weevils with which it comes in contact.

One should fumigate with this only when the temperature is above 67 degrees Fahrenheit, and on a calm day. When the temperature is below 67 degrees F. a larger amount of the carbon bisulfide is required and the results obtained are so unsatisfactory that it is impracticable to attempt fumigation. Best results are obtained with the temperature above 75 degrees F.

Keep all fires, such as lighted cigar, cigarette or lantern away while fumigation is being done as the gas is inflammable when mixed with air.

Measure the contents of the bin to be treated, including the air space above the grain as well as that occupied by it. Use eight to fifteen pounds of carbon bisulfide for each 1000 cubic feet of space in the bin including grain and air space above. Eight pounds is enough where bins are tightly sealed and built for fumigation but the average farm bins are far from air tight and will require at least ten pounds per thousand cubic feet.

Seal all cracks and small openings in the wall with newspaper or other airtight seal. Close all openings, such as stairways, with canvas or partition board and fix the outside door so that it can be closed tightly when fumigant is liberated.

To fumigate the grain, expose the amount of bisulfide needed in shallow pans on the top of the grain. There should be enough gas to make a large evaporating surface to insure rapid liberation of the gas. Another method is to half bury burlap bags or cotton waste beneath the surface of the grain and then saturate them in the liquid. Or, if grain is not to be milled soon, one can distribute the chemical on the surface of the grain by means of a sprinkling can and then cover with a tarpaulin or canvas.

The gas will rapidly descend through the grain and kill the insects. Care should be taken to breathe as little of the vapor as possible. Close the door tightly and keep closed at least thirty-six hours. This is usually long enough to kill the weevils. After the fumigation is completed air out the bin thoroughly before entering. There is no danger of the above method injuring the grain for food germination.

GRUBBS GIVES NEW THEORY OF SHOOTING CASE

whipped out a revolver and fired twice at Black, both bullets taking effect, according to Grubbs, who said he was unarmed and stood in the background during the shooting.

Grubbs then explained, it is said, that he suggested to the man who had shot Black that "I'll take care of my man and you take care of yours." Declaring Harris made no attempt to question or to stop him, Grubbs said he placed his wounded pal in their auto and drove to Xenia. Harris took Bowser to a hospital.

According to Grubbs' statement, the Chevrolet coach used by himself and Black belonged to the latter's brother, Paul, Katoka, Ind., and his injured companion, during the drive back to Xenia, asked that the car be returned to his brother.

After delivering the wounded man to the home of Black's mother-in-law in Xenia, Grubbs was said to have driven directly to Princeton. Black's brother went to Princeton Thursday for the auto and it was while the brother, Paul, was driving the car out of the city that police, recognizing the license number, obtained a clue as to Grubbs' whereabouts.

Court records revealed Grubbs was fined in that city September 19 for drunkenness, and that Newell Black, arriving in Princeton late the same day, paid the fine. Both men left after the hearing, saying they were going to Detroit, Mich.

Sheriff John Baughn and his chief deputy, Walton Spahr, who have been assisting in the investigation of the shooting, had planned to go to Dayton Thursday to question the wounded constable at St. Elizabeth Hospital, and they cancelled the trip upon being notified of the capture of Grubbs at Princeton.

Another angle of the case which mystifies authorities is a report of an unidentified woman being at the scene of the shooting. No mention of a woman being mixed up in the case was made by Grubbs in his confession, Princeton police said.

Grubbs was said to have declared, however, that he and Black at first thought they saw a woman in one of the autos occupied by either Bowser or Harris.

Meanwhile, Sheriff Baughn may make a further inquiry in an effort to establish the identity of a girl whose first name is reported to be "Helen," said to have been picked up by Black and Grubbs Tuesday night.

Descriptions of Grubbs and Black also tallied with those of two bandits reported to have held up and robbed an unidentified young Xenia woman and her male escort on a highway near Xenia last Friday night. The man and woman, concealing their identities, reported the incident at police headquarters. About $12 was said to have been taken from the couple.

Asked about his movements on the night of the 29th, Dr. Ritchie said he and William, his son, had gone "rolling" on Cold Pond, about five miles north of Stamford.

"There wasn't anything biting—we only caught four or five, so we set out an eel line and came back home. I picked up my wife at Mae's and we went to the second show. She was with Tatroe over at Mae's."

Dr. Ritchie admitted he had frequently gone "clamming," which statement was in direct contradiction to the story told by William Ritchie, who persisted today in his statement that his father had not dug clams while in Connecticut. He continued to deny, however, that he were sneakers.

William Ritchie was in a defiant mood Thursday night, and announced that he would "right transportation" back to New York.

CHURCH PLANNING "PROMOTION DAY"

"Promotion Day" will be observed at the Bible School period of the Church of Christ, Bowersville, Sunday morning, it is announced. This program will be in connection with an all day service and a basket dinner will be enjoyed at 12:30 p. m.

The Rev. A. H. Gullidge, pastor of the East Dayton Church of Christ, will be guest speaker in the afternoon and a program of speeches and music is being planned. The public is invited to attend.

MRS. COLLINGS GOES TO VIEW SUSPECTS; BOTH OFFER ALIBIS

hand over the hair of the elder Ritchie, Mrs. Collings with a sharp intake of breath cried: "that might be—that might be the man."

District Attorney Alexander Blue of Suffolk County in charge of the case from the beginning had in the meantime talked by phone to the Daytona chief of police. He had asked Chief Luke to hold the two men pending further investigation and had obtained the police chief's impression of his two prisoners.

They were distinctly unfavorable and Blue was very much impressed with the fact that the elder man was a morphine addict and that the younger seemed to be very much under his domination. He immediately urged Judge Kelly and Mrs. Collings to accept the invitation for the trip of the International News Service.

"Every other clue has failed," Blue said, "there is a very good chance that these are the men we are after."

Farm Notes

FLEAS IN FARM BUILDINGS

A few fleas on a dog or a cat do little more than add zest to the life of the host, but when a barn, hog-house, or any of the other farm buildings becomes overrun, the matter takes on an entirely different aspect. Such outbreaks have been somewhat common within recent years in Ohio.

According to J. S. Houser, chief of the Entomology Department at the Ohio Experiment Station, the first step to be taken in controlling an outbreak of fleas in a building is to remove all debris from the floor. This is essential since the eggs and larvae of fleas are found in dust and trash. If the work is done thoroughly, not only will large numbers of the immature forms be destroyed, but some of the adult insects likewise will be removed. Scatter the cleanings some distance away from all buildings. Particular stress should be placed on cleaning up situations where animals are accustomed to bed down.

After the work of cleaning up has been completed, the floors and the walls to a height of three feet should be sprayed with an oily liquid. The oily spray should be applied in sufficient quantity to thoroughly wet down the floor and should penetrate all cracks and crevices in the side walls.

Oils best suited for this purpose are those commonly used for spraying trees during the dormant period for the control of San Jose scale or similar pests. Such oils are so treated by the manufacturers that they mix readily with water. The various brands differ somewhat in the actual amount of oil they contain, but ordinarily the oil may be diluted at the rate of one gallon to fifteen or twenty gallons of water. Local dealers in insecticides will be able to furnish one of the several brands commonly sold.

BLACK BONNET WILL BE ESSENTIAL PART OF WINTER APPAREL

By ALICE LANGEIER
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Oct. 1.—Have you a little black bonnet in your wardrobe? If you haven't, of course you are not just up to snuff, for French modistes are featuring the little black hat in every kind of felt and fabric.

Marie Alphonsine makes it with wide floating veil in a long over-the-eye droop on one side and hide-on-the-curve on the other. The only trimming is a red and black quill on the droopy side.

Suzanne Talbot uses black felt in Second Empire style with a little white bird set on the brim.

A small-fitting black velvet cap model has a border of felt almost eclipsing one eye.

Reversible taupe makes another model, the dull side showing where the rim rolls back. Moroccan ribbon is the trimming in a bow on the side.

Stunning little black hats come in seal or astrakhan to match mantelets and muffs of the same. They are generally untrimmed save for a little feather of some kind or other.

CHARLES TRIBBEY DIES HERE FRIDAY

Charles M. Tribbey, 75, died at his home, 111 Fayette St., Friday morning at 3:45 o'clock following an illness from heart trouble. His condition had been serious three weeks.

Mr. Tribbey had resided in Xenia twelve years moving here from Bethel, O. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Tribbey, and five sons: Roy, at home; George, Springfield; John, Cleveland; Ray and a Jason Tribbey, Cleveland. Three brothers, William Tribbey, Bethel, O.; Edward Tribbey, Xenia and Marcellus Tribbey, Cincinnati, also survive.

Brief funeral services will be held at the home Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The body will then be taken to Bethel, O., and funeral services will be held at the M. E. Church there at 2:30 o'clock. Burial will be made in Bethel Cemetery. Friends may call at the home, 111 Fayette St., Saturday afternoon after 2 o'clock.

WILLIAM C. FINNEY SUMMONED FRIDAY

William C. Finney, 76, retired farmer, died at his home on Main St., in Cedarville Friday morning at 6:40 o'clock. He had been in failing health several years.

Mr. Finney was born near Cedarville and spent his entire life in that vicinity. He had engaged in farming until his health failed several years ago and he and his family moved into the village. He was a member of the U. P. Church.

Mr. Finney is survived by his widow, Mrs. Callie Finney, three sons, Albert, at home; William, near Jamestown and Carl, Toledo, and a daughter, Mrs. Margaret Nelson, Cedarville. Two brothers, John C. and C. L. Finney, near Clifton, and a sister, Miss Laura Finney, Cedarville, also survive.

Funeral arrangements have not been made and will be announced later.

ABOLISH DEATH WATCH
CANON CITY, Colo., Oct. 2.—The "death watch" at the Colorado state prison has been abolished by the state board of corrections, governing body. Considerations of economy and of humanity led to the move. Prisoners were placed in the "death cell" fifteen feet from the trap where they were to be hanged, thirty days before execution. An electric light burned continually in the cell and a guard paced the corridor day and night.

"TALKIES" COST LESS

Dialogue Replaces Descriptive Scenes Of Silents; Other Economies

SILENT TALKIE CAMERAS such as this save large sums in avoiding "retakes"

WITHIN A FEW HOURS' RIDE of Hollywood in southern California, a camera is set up to film Sahara desert scenes.

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Oct. 2.—When silent pictures were in their prime, in other words, the money which was spent on silent pictures, contrary to popular opinion, are produced at approximately 20 per cent less cost than the silent films. This is because dialogue is being used in a descriptive sense to explain away connective scenes which were necessary before.

In exceptional cases where the costs remain the same for the same type of pictures—silent and synchronized to voice—the 20 per cent differential is incorporated in the talkies in the form of additional sets, higher priced and better actors, and greater story value.

Public Benefit
This additional value has been rounded to the benefit of audiences in the form of more elaborately produced pictures for an admission price considerably lower than formerly went into the production of narrative passages in silent pictures—many of which were discarded in the final cutting—is being utilized in a more careful preparation of story, in the construction of better sets and in employment of better actors and directors.

Another means toward economy is the growing practice in studio art departments of building miniature sets in advance of filming. This is done for the purpose of presenting a definite visualization to directors, writers, cameramen and construction technicians.

When Set Models Count
Often it has been learned that, after a miniature set has been discussed, a less elaborate structure would suffice as well. Previously, the sets were constructed, errors made, costly changes ordered and the belated discovery made that it was impractical because story changes had eliminated the scene.

The advantages of the miniature set—when used chiefly as model—is obviously an economic expedient of startling proportions.

In addition to these points, increased economies have been effected in the technical branches of the industry. The laboratories where films are developed have been improved to the point where imperfect prints are an absolute rarity.

Cameras are more silent, obviating the necessity for "retakes," the new ribbon microphone, with its greater amplifying factors and directional qualities, is largely responsible for doing away with the jumpiness noted in early talkies and with the dominance of close shots. This one thing relieves the necessity of moving in from long to intimate shots when only one can be used in the final film.

Again, the movies are utilizing natural resources to the best of their advantage. This is reflected in the current vogue of eliminating long distance locations for settings closer to home.

INSTRUMENT MAKES SUN STAND STILL

BERKLEY, Cal., Oct. 2.—An instrument which, for the purpose of science will make the sun stand still as successfully as did Joshua at Gibeon, has been installed at the student observatory of the University of California department of astronomy.

The new apparatus, which was installed under the direction of Associate Professor C. D. Shane, follows the sun with revolving mirrors and casts a reflection of the sun's image into a spectograph within one of the observatory buildings.

The image is maintained at the same spot for over a period of five or six hours, thereby making it possible to study the sun without bulky instruments which could not well be attached to a moving telescope.

The system of mirrors which compensates for the revolution of the earth and makes the sun stand still, is called a coelostat. The new instrument will aid greatly in making photographic copies of the sun's light. Spectrum lines also may be measured and their relative intensities determined.
